THE MOST EXTRAORDINARY SALE WE EVER ADVERTISED STILL GOES ON.

Yesterday we were as busy as the days preceding; but with extra sales people and more system in the several departments we were better enabled to nit on everybody. There must be some merit in the bargains we are offering, - people who come once come again and send relatives and neighbors and ends, all bearing the same tale on their lips of where can I find such an arti-- So-and-So bought some yesterday for a little of nothing. Richmond has er before seen such an immense slaughter of prices; and it is a compliment its inhabitants that they were not long and have not been slow in taking adantage of them. There are hundreds of articles being put forward every day hat were overlooked or neglected, and 'twould be wise for you to come in the store as often as possible. Remember, our object is merely to sell off our imcase surplus stock, and these prices have no regard for cost or value.

SPECIAL NOTICE .- During this sale we close our stores for the day at 5 clock P. M. (except on Saturday), so as to give our salespeople rest and enable us to straighten up stocks for the next day.

The following is a public document which every citizen ought to read: SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE CITY GAS-WORKS,

RICHMOND, January 1, 1888. To His Honor W. C. Carrington,

I have the honor to present for your consideration the thirty-seventh annual report of the City Gas-Works and the result of their operations for the year ending December 31, 1887:

The maximum consumption of gas in any one twenty-four hours occurred on the 27th of December, amounting to

The increase in the consumption of gas clearly demonstrates the great importance of enlarging our generating and holding hundred and sixty-six thousand cubic feet, and should an accident occur whereby we would have to stop the works for even a few hours the city would be without gas. During the past year we have had to furnish gas to street the same all night services instead of lamps for an all-night service, instead of the moon's schedule as heretofore. This has increased the public consumption to some extent, but not as much as we expected, owing to a patent governor burner we have been using, which I think has paid for itself several times
